Assets folder not visible in android studio

You should then see an assets folder in your Explorer area:Now navigate to where on your computer you saved the files you downloaded for this project. One thing to notice is the Stylesheet tag at the top:The HREF is "mystyle.css". It just changes some values for the H1 heading:H1 {Color:#996724;text-align:center;font-family: Arial, Helvetica, sans-serif;}Feel free to change the CSS, though, or add some more to it.But double click the cat.html page and you'll see this:We have references to two files in the BODY tags, one for an image and one for a web page (we've left the P tags off):Go to Dog PageThe source (src) for the image (img) is "images/cat_big.png". Click on your assets folder to select it. (The HREF for the web page, dog.html, will be OK, because the dog page is in the same folder as the cat page.) To solve this problem, we can create an images folder inside of assets.Right-click your assets folder in the Explorer window. Every time one of grid items is tapped, we want to go to a web page. This is a CSS file that we created. From the menu that appears, select New > Folder > Assets Folder:You should see a Configure Component dialogue box appear. Press CTL + V or Command + V to paste the files over. The code for the CSS file is quite simple, too. We're saying that inside of this folder is a file called cat_big.png. OK, now that we have the GridView working as we want it, we can turn our attention to the WebView and web pages. First, though, we need to add the HTML pages and images to the projects.Things like HTML pages and resources you use for those pages must go in an Assets folder. This Activity will hold a WebView widget. However, we have neither a folder called images or a cat image inside of it. So this will fail. In the Explorer area to the left of Android Studio, then, switch back to Android view:Now select your app folder:Right-click the app folder. So if you tap on the Cat item, for example, a page will open all about cats.For this, we're going to need a new Activity. This is pointing to a folder called images. It is in the same folder as the web pages, so you can just type the file name and extension to reference this CSS file. You should see a Copy box appear:Click OK on this and your assets folder should look like this:Notice that in the main coding area, one of the HTML pages may well have opened up. We've kept the code quite simple for the web pages:If you know any HTML then feel free to amend them. Just click Finish on this dialogue box. Now go back to Android Studio. Let's do some coding for the WebView.< Landscape View| Coding for the WebView >Back to the Android Contents Page They are not drawable files or layout files that you place under the res folder. If you haven't downloaded the files yet, click here-DOWNLOAD ZIP FILE (24 Kilobytes)Highlight all the files except the cat_big.png image (we'll create an images folder for this):Press CTRL + C or (Command + C on the Mac) to copy the files. From the menus that appear, select New > Directory:From the dialogue box that appears, type images:Click OK and you should see an images folder inside of your assets one:Now copy and paste that cat_big image from your download files into your new images folder:The IMG tag from the HTML should be OK now:We have an images folder now and a file called cat_big.png inside of that folder.But that's the setup complete for the assets folder.

Jan 12, 2022 · In cases where a migration involves complex schema changes, Room might not be able to generate an appropriate migration path automatically. For example, if you decide to split the data in a table into two tables, Room is unable to tell how this split should be performed. 1) Open android studio, go to preferences by clicking on the top left 'Android Studio' 2) Search for 'avd' in the search bar. You'll see 'AVD Manager' in search results. It will be under 'Tools' folder. 3) Click on it and it will ask you to set up a short cut. Set it up. Say for example use 'V' as a shortcut. Jun 03, 2018 · Do not create any additional directories in the root directory, unless you really need to. Be consistent with naming. If you decide to use camel case for directory names and low letters for assets, stick to that convention. Use separate 'Third_Party' folder to store assets imported from the Asset Store. They usually have their own structure ... Dec 16, 2021 · Warning: Each unique resource in your project can maintain only one state, no matter how many different objects you instantiate for it. For example, if you instantiate two Drawable objects from the same image resource and change a property (such as the alpha) for one object, then it also affects the other. When dealing with multiple instances of an image ...
