The screenshot shows the homepage of AnnualCreditReport.com. At the top, there's a banner with five diverse people. Below it, a large blue box says "START HERE to view and print your credit report now." To the right, a section titled "What is AnnualCreditReport.com?" explains the service: "This central site allows you to request a free credit report, commonly called a credit report, once every 12 months from each of the nationwide consumer credit reporting companies: Equifax, Experian and TransUnion." A red box highlights the text "AnnualCreditReport.com is the official site to help consumers to obtain their free credit report." Below this, another section says "We guard your privacy." with instructions on how to ensure a secure connection. Logos for TransUnion, Experian, and Equifax are at the bottom, along with a "Privacy Policy" link.

Annual Credit Report Completes Your Expectations

You may not always wish to have constant monitoring (as is offered by the Company Tracker) services when completing company searches with us. Instead we can choose an annual credit...

This can be for a variety of reasons. You may think that your ability to function well enough without constant monitoring is sufficient. Or perhaps you might not have the resources to take to any changes that the Company Tracker might show.

This is particularly the case for small or medium sized businesses, in addition to sole traders. Therefore, we offer an annual credit report which is a much more cost effective alternative to the Company Tracker as it is only required annually and does not require a monthly payment as is required - as opposed to constant monitoring. It is also one of the best value Company Search...

The Standard Credit report includes the following:

1. Company Information - The specific company information provided will include name and registration details, incorporation and accounts in addition to the trading address and telephone contact details.

TOP TEN REASONS PEOPLE COMPLAIN TO BBB

AnnualCreditReport.com is a website operated jointly by the three main US credit reporting agencies, U.S., Equifax, Experian and Transunion. The site was created to meet its obligations under the Fair and Accurate Credit Transactions Act (FACTA) [1] to provide a mechanism for U.S. consumers to receive up to three free credit reports per year. Background One of FACTA's provisions, approved in 2003 as an amendment to the Fair Credit Reporting Act (FCRA), was a requirement that each of the three credit reporting agencies provide, on request, a free credit report every twelve months for each consumer. The aim was to allow consumers a way to ensure that their credit information is correct and protected against identity theft. [2] Consequently, the three major credit reporting agencies, Equifax, Experian and Transunion created the company of the joint venture company to oversee its compliance with FACTA. [3] Central Source then set up a free phone number, an email address and a central website, annualcreditreport.com, to process consumer requests. Access to the free report was initially implemented in stages, according to the state of residence of the consumer. By the end of 2005, all U.S. consumers, U.S. They can use these services to get a credit report. Companies currently participating in these companies participate on the website: Equifax Experian Transunion. Companies that do not participate in Innovis PRBC Cheycsystems. The use of the AnnualCreditReport.com website requires users to register on the site and provide their basic identification information, such as name, address and social security number. Then, the user is sent to the website of the individual credit reporting agency they select, where they are asked to add additional security questions to confirm your identity before obtaining your report. [2] A consumer can request reports from the three agencies at the same time or staggered the requests over the period of twelve months as a form of Your credit data. [2] To obtain a free credit report, users are not required to give a credit card number, but the establishment of an account is required by some agencies. Any inaccuracy or indications of identity theft can be treated using the mechanisms provided in the FCRA and Fact. During a period of two years between December 2004 and December 2006, 52 million credit reports were issued to consumers through annualcreditreport.com. According to the association of consumer data industries, less than 2% of the reports examined by a consumer gave rise to a dispute in which the data of the report was suppressed. [4] The credit scores are not included in the free credit reports obtained from annualcreditreport.com. For a position, each of the credit offices offer credit ratings as an additional characteristic of the report. In March 2007, it was announced that the website would offer free critical reports to all Americans weekly until April 20, 2022. [5] Concerns about the effect of credit investigation in credit scores this service does not reduce the score or the dito of the consumer because it counts as a shooter Credit or dito "soft". However, Credit rolls or dito "Hard" made by lenders directly affect the CRA or dito score of the borrower. Third Fraud Attempts See: FreeCreditScore.com AnnualCreditReport.com is the only authorized source and federal mandate to obtain a free credit report. The Federal Trade Commission warns consumers to be aware of the websites "impostor" who have similar names or are deliberately falsifications of the actual name. [2] Such websites include sites impostor with titles like FreeCreditScore.com. [6] To investigate this concern, the group World Privacy Forum has made two studies on AnnualCreditReport.com. His July 2005 study found that there were 233 domains with names very similar to AnnualCreditReport.com, of which 112 users routed to a variety of unwanted destinations, including feeding services, "campaigns" and porn stores. The report concludes that Reporting agencies and the Federal Trade Commission had to do more to reinstate and close impostor sites. A follow-up study of RentPrep found that of the 112 original routes there, there are only six left.
