FS-File system È una struttura gerarchica ad albero di file e directory. Alcuni compiti sono eseguiti in modo piÙ efficiente su un file system che su ogni directory all'interno del file system. Per esempio, potete fare il backup, spostare o proteggere un intero file system. I file system sono associati a dispositivi (volumi logici) rappresentati da file speciali in /dev. Quando viene montato un file system, il volume logico e il suo contenuto sono collegati ad una directory nella struttura ad albero gerarchico. È possibile accedere ai file system sia locali che remoti usando il comando mount. AIX supporta questi tipi di file system: JFS è il Journaled File System che esiste all'interno di un volume logico su disco JFS2 È Enhanced Journaled File System che esiste all'interno di un volume logico su disco CDRFS È CD-ROM File System su un Compact Disc UDF È il Universal Disk Format (DVD ROM media) SMBFSA È Server Message Block Filesystem (cifs fs, samba share) PROCFS è il Proc File System NFS è il Network File System accessibile attraverso una rete alcune extra: GPFS è il General Parallel Filesystem AHAFS è il Autonomic Health Advisor File System ..... System-Created File Systems in AIX i sei file system standard in AIX versioni 5 e successive sono /, /home, /usr, /proc, /tmp e /var. Each of these file systems is always associated with a logical volume name: Logical Volume È il File System or Description ..... hd1 È il users' home dir È il /home È il /usr È il /tmp (operating system commands, libraries and application programs) hd3 È il /var È il /tmp (temporary space for all users) hd4 È il /etc (critical files for system operations, programs that complete the boot process) hd5 È il /proc (pseudo fs maintained in memory to support the wires) ..... /etc /filesystem All file system information is centralized in /etc /filesystems. Most file system maintenance commands take their default values from this file. The file is organized in room names that are file system names and content that are value pairs attribute features by specifying the features of the file system. /Tmp: È il /tmp (variable spool and files of log) HD1OPTA, È il /etc (programs freeware) prime È il /proc (pseudo fs maintained in memory to support the wires) ..... /etc /filesystem
